Thursday July 9, 2009 I mentioned Quest (QUC.V) at .42 yesterday morning on the Canadian Stock Alerts blog after the early morning spike. I said I hoped for a pullback and someone must have been listening, as it did pull back to .38 .

If you waited for it to clear .40 for a sense of buying conviction, and then bought at .42 you could have sold easily today at .55 (even though it did hit .58)

$5,000.00 invested, returned a $1,550.00 profit or 31%. Pretty good considering the markets have been lousy this summer.

Remember I am not a stock picker. I am simply sharing what my strategy has been able to do. That's what Best Stocks For Easy Profits is all about. It's a system that you can use and see the same results I do.
